On Page 7, lines 21-27:

Provided on the connecting shaft 8 between the two mountings 9 and 10 are two radial projections in the form of disks [[16]] between which the actuating element 14 of a coupling regulator 13 engages. The two radial disks [[16]] on the connecting shaft 8 thus form a friction bearing 16 by which means the connecting shaft 8 can be exposed to force in both axial directions from the actuating element 14 of the coupling regulator 13 to effect the axial displacement of the connecting shaft 8 or hold the connecting shaft 8 in a desired axial position.
